“Develop a passion for learning. If you do, you will never cease to grow.”

"Together may we give our children roots to grow and wings to fly." Anonymous

As we come to the end of another academic session and hand over the results to our students who have persevered to yield the best, my thoughts shift towards defining the role of the parents and teacher educators in shaping the personality of the students. Parents are the first mentor of the child and the teacher is the second. Both have an immense contribution and responsibility in shaping a child's personality. Parents are the child's first role model. Children behave, react and imitate the same as their parents.

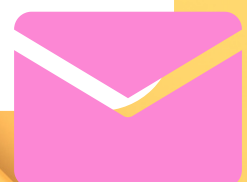

Parents play an important role in encouraging and motivating their kids to learn. Good parental support helps child to be positive, healthy and good life long learner. Children acquire skills at a very early stage of their life if the parents are responsive and understanding. On the other hand, a teacher is the first person from whom child learns his social skills in school. Teachers make him comfortable and guide him about the early concepts and developmental skills of life. Open minded, well balanced and a planned teacher has a great power to bring a positive change in the child's development. As the child grows and develops mastery in different skills, teacher becomes a real guide in nurturing his interest and learning to make him more independent. Trust and mutual understanding between parent and teacher is the secret of a child's happy learning. Support and cooperation from parents towards teacher helps a lot to connect, understand and work towards child. Remarkable positive change is seen in a child if the parents and teacher understand and work hand in hand. A good parent teacher relationship leads child to be positive.

Therefore, let us both establish the quintessential and important balance between parents and teachers and work in unison to provide strength to the foundation for learning.

I wish you all a very happy reading!!
